YOUNGMAN AND TAYLOR GET REBUKES

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

The "backyard quarrel" between Lieut.-Governor William A. Youngman and Chairman Amos L. Taylor of the Republican State committee is vigorously condemned in a statement issued by Judge Hannigan, president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

He appealed to Youngman to "let the Republican organization speak for itself" and advised Taylor to retire and let someone "more qualified" fill his shoes as chairman.

"Youngman," he said, "by persistent resort to political baby-kissing, gate-crashing and wild exaggeration of his military weaknesses, has crashed into the lieutenant governorship."

Taylor, he asserted, lacks "imagination and adaptability required of a leader" and has been "town boss of Belmont" so long that he cannot mould and harmonize the structure of a statewide organization into an effective unit.

Louis K. Liggett, national committeeman, the other party to the quarrel, he completely absolves. He said that if the Republicans want Youngman as their candidate for governor they will say so. He appealed to the lieutenant governor to let the organization "speak for itself."

Massachusetts for her own ate, as well as that of the nation must be restored to full standing in the Republican column," he continued. "The southern leaders of the Democratic party and the western radical insurgents can easily combine to put Massachusetts and New England into economic disaster. And they will do so eventually unless there is a change."

If the Republicans want Youngman as their candidate for governor next year they will say so. But in the meantime, on behalf of countless thousands, I appeal to Youngman to let the Republican organization speak for itself and to Taylor to generously yield to some one more qualified than he to assume the direction of the state committee, and to both of them to do their quarrelling in private."

SUICIDE RATE IS LOW IN BOSTON

Twenty persons in every 100,000 took their lives by suicide last year according to a countrywide survey by Spectator, an insurance public caller. Boston proved below the average in the survey, recording only 25.9 persons for every 100,000.

Little Rock, Ark., showed the highest rate in the country with 65.3 deaths under the same scale, and Cedar Rapids, Ia., was lowest with 8.5 per 100,000.

Jumping from high buildings and even from airplanes are among the methods the modern suicides choose, Spectator said.

BRIAND OFFERS PLAN TO CURE DEPRESSION

Geneva, Switzerland, May 15 (AP)—

Economic depression is the most serious threat to European accord, Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, declared today at the opening session of the commission to study his project for a pan-European federation.

The crisis is especially serious in the agricultural countries of south-eastern Europe, he said, and to those countries the commission will try to give prompt relief both by preferential rates on cereals and by long-term agricultural credits.

The commission will discuss the "urgently important" Austro-German proposals for a customs union, he said, when the matter is presented by Julius Curtius, Germany's Foreign Minister.

Briand was expected to present each national delegation of the commission a copy of plans for a new project for common economic betterment.

Dispatches from Paris said the plan was in three parts.

The feature of the first part, the Paris dispatches said, is European preference for Central and Eastern nations' wheat, with a central sales office for wheat from those countries and abandonment of the most favored nations clause.

The second part proposes organization for production and sale either through existing industrial groups or the creation of new ones for steel, heavy electric plants, coal and chemical products, automobiles, textiles, wool and lumber.

In the third part the French government offers to co-operate financially in the execution of the financial program. On condition the finance committee of the League of Nations act as controlling organ for state loans for public works and for quotations of foreign securities on the Paris bourse.

SOVIET TO PAY BRITISH, MAYBE

London, May 15 (INR)—Soviet Russia and the British government are carrying on negotiations for the settlement of Russia's outstanding debts, amounting to billions of dollars.

U. S. GOLD GOING TO MEXICO

Mexico City, May 13 (AP)—American gold currency is to be imported in large quantities into Mexico and circulated to check the fall of the silver peso.

Representatives of all banks doing business in Mexico at a meeting last night decided that perhaps a partial solution lay in bringing in enough American gold to satisfy the public demand for gold currency.

It was also agreed to form a consortium to control foreign exchange and avoid operations by unscrupulous speculators which would cause a further depreciation in silver.

The Treasury Department announced at the same time that a free exchange of gold between Mexico and other countries would become effective immediately, thus allowing re-exportation in the United States of gold brought here to improve the exchange, in excess of the amount which proves necessary.

DAD OF 18 FOR BIRTH CONTROL

Atlanta, May 13 (AP)—Richard B. Russell, chief justice of the Georgia Supreme Court and father of 18 children, one of whom is Governor-elect of the State, has no objection to anyone practicing birth control, but he wants "the home protected against an invasion of improper matter through the United States mails."

Debating here last night with Mrs. Margaret Sanger, veteran birth control crusader and the mother of three children, the Georgia jurist defended the so-called Comstock law which makes illegal the dissemination of birth control information by mail.

"I am not debating against repeal of this law, because I am the father of 18 children," he said. "Everyone in Georgia who needs to know about birth control already knows it. Furthermore, its practice is common."

"I don't want the mails in my state opened to injurious matter to be placed before the immature minds in the home."

Mrs. Sanger agreed that birth control was employed by many persons, and has been for a generation or more, but she argued that the Comstock law prevents contraceptive information from reaching the poor people who need it most.

SIX SAVED BY AN EARLY CALLER

Haverhill, May 15—The arrival of a milkman at the home of Raymond Carr, 23, of Sixth ave., today, where Carr, according to police, was attempting to commit suicide by gas, resulted in the lives of Carr and five others being saved.

The milkman, Thomas Devine, smelled gas and broke in the door. He found Carr partially overcome on the floor and gas escaping from seven jars in the kitchen range. He dragged Carr out, opened doors and windows and summoned police.

Carr's brother, Frank, sleeping in a room next to the kitchen, was partly overcome. His wife and their three children, sleeping upstairs, were not affected. Carr and his brother were revived by a physician.

Ever say to yourself "why can't I look as though my clothes were made for me"? We know of a sure answer! Join the thousands of thrifty men who are enjoying the luxury of that "made for me look", fitted by Bond.

We are really "cranks" on this often neglected matter. We insist that all Bond fitters be graduates of our own factory. They know how our clothes are made. They know exactly what to do to shape a collar, so that it hugs your neck. They know how to give you a smooth pair of shoulders. Chasing "back-wrinkles" is their hobby. And when a pair of trousers leave their hands they have that "made for me look", from wasteband to cuff.

We believe the skilled hands of our tailors are winning equally as many friends as are our London-designed fashions, our thoroughbred wools, and our delightfully low prices.

"DIGESTIBLE?"
WHY, THEY FED ME BANANAS
WHEN I WAS TOO YOUNG TO HAVE TEETH!"

Peel
a bite of health

"I owe a lot of my good looks to bananas. I wasn't a day over three months old when my doctor mixed a little ripe banana pulp in my feedings. Said it was one of the easiest foods in the world for a baby stomach to handle . . . I've never had a sick day—and just look at me, will you?"

PLEASE excuse Patricia's grin. She simply can't understand how her grandparents ever thought bananas were indigestible. This outworn notion resulted from an over-fondness for the fruit, for now and then someone just would eat them green.

The real babies in your family get bananas only on the doctor's orders. But the grown-up babies of 10 or 40 or 70 simply can't eat too many. The ripe banana comes near to being an all-round, perfect food . . . rich in energy-building materials, in valuable mineral salts, and vitamins.

Buy bananas today. They're cheap. They're nourishing. They are a bargain in food value. And—don't forget—eaten ripe (when there's no green on the tip and the skin is flecked with brown) they can't be beaten for digestibility. Ask any baby you know!

ABOLITION OF TRAFFIC BOARD DEMANDED

Demanding immediate abolition of the Boston traffic commission, Chairman Frank A. Conklin today charged that with an expenditure of $200,000 in a year the taxpayers will receive not a "half of up" traffic situation from a lot of "sinking smog."

A deep-seated rift among the members of the traffic commission has occurred, it became known today. The four unpaid members of the commission want to give up their positions on the commission, allowing Traffic Commissioner Joseph A. Conry, the paid head, to do the job alone.

Conklin's attack followed quickly after the announcement by Traffic Commissioner Conry that the traffic commission had authorized Traffic Engineer John F. Hurley, of all the charges filed against him by the traffic commission.

Other members of the commission have desired Hurley had been exonerated.

Conklin's remark that the "so-called" exonerated was a "white wash" which had apparently been written by Hurley himself.

Indeed, approval by state to be "shutless," has a substantial surplus. And, most interestingly, Southern Ireland has some 100 per cent ownership with a gigantic hydroelectric power plant, and appears to be making a success of it. How do you explain that?

The Rev. Wilson H. Stearns, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Newark, N. J., is in favor of teaching birth control clinics, and the clergy are with him.

Prosperous women have complete birth control information. Their doctors provide it, although the prosperous women could afford as many children as might come.

Poor women, already swarmed with too many children, are deprived of birth control knowledge, because they haven't a prosperous physician such as the prosperous ladies have to give them the information. It is fortunate that the world knows that poor mothers have many children for the children of the poor are the future of the world. But that has nothing to do with the question of justice.

Aircraft Tests by Army Opposed

Washington, May 15 (INS)—Opening a two-day meeting at the House today, the administrative board of the American Engineering Council went on record in opposition to legislation authorizing the army air corps to make commercial tests of aircraft and engines.

Opposition was based on the ground that such a practice would place the government in competition with private enterprise.

Dr. S. W. Stratton, former president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a former chief of the Federal Bureau of Standards, pointed out that no legislation is needed to enable the air corps to make tests they desire for their own use.

He said that the real motive of the proposed act was to find sources of opportunity for profitable investment.

COAST GUARD IS DOUBTING CITY, SAYS MELLON

New London, Ct., May 15 (ING)—The Coast Guard has played an important part in the protection of the country against those who would defy her laws and threaten her security, whether in time of war or time of peace, Secretary Mellon said today, in an address to the graduating class of the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, Mellon declared the Coast Guard never allowed anything to interfere with the performance of its duty.

"We have never, in this country, believed in excessive armaments and have always shown a willingness to keep our armed forces at the lowest limits consistent with national safety and our responsibility as a great world power," Mellon said.

"Our energy and our ambition as a people have been directed only toward peaceful conquests by trade and industrial development."

"That, it seems to me, is proof that the nation has not wandered from the purpose for which it was founded—to preserve peace and to give to every man, no far as might be possible, an equal opportunity for development under a government ready and able to protect the nation."

BOY, 2, DROWNS AT STOUGHTON

On a visit to his aunt's home in Stoughton today John Raymond, 2, son of J. T. Raymond, superintendent of schools at Gardner, was drowned in a brook less than two feet deep.

With his three-year-old brother William, he had been playing near the home of Mrs. W. J. Z. Tolman, sister of the school superintendent. His disappearance was noted in a few minutes and a search led to the brook where William was found frantically trying to pull his brother out of the water.

The drowned boy apparently tripped as he approached the brook and hit his head on a rock in the fall. He was face down in the water when Mrs. Tolman found him. Efforts to revive him failed.

HIJACKED ENVOY FEARS FOR LIFE

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, chargé d'affaires of the Salvadoran legation, said today he had made a formal report to his government of the raid upon the legation by liquor thieves.

Leiva, who was injured in a fight with the intruders, said the legation had been visited by burglars four times during the last four months and that he believed his life was in danger because of inadequate police protection.

The State Department, after an investigation, announced yesterday it was satisfied that the present protection of diplomatic officers and their property in Washington was inadequate.

Leiva said he did not care whether the State Department replaced the 17 cases of liquor taken by the thieves.

"The liquor and other stuff stolen is purely incidental," he said. "I am concerned about my wife and my own safety. It was only the moral chance that one of the bullets the burglar fired did not hit me."

He added that under existing con-

'Temporarily Dead,' Vet Seeks Bonus for 'Pork Chops'

Chicago, May 15 (AP)—An affidavit was made yesterday by Isaac Irvin, a negro ex-soldier, that a report of his death was "temporarily untrue."

"I suppose," he said, "that it will come true some time, but in the meanwhile I would like some pork chops."

He made this remark in applying to a newspaper for aid in getting some of his bonus money. He said he couldn't imagine "how such a story got started unless they mean they expect on it to be dead before I get the money."

He said he was unwilling to let his wife stay in the legation overnight.

BEAN HOLE BEANS

» » Just Like "Outdoor" Cooking

Nothing for hungry appetites like the taste of good food cooked in the open. Here is a recipe for you, from the lumber camps of the big North Woods. The sealed bean pot buried in glowing embers, brimming with layers of choice beans and sugar-cured pork, cups of brown sugar add molasses, gives the different recipe for "bean hole" beans. Now all their flavor-rich goodness, even the "outdoors" taste, is brought you in this product of the great, sanitary Van Camp kitchens. Even "home-made" beans cannot equal Bean Hole Beans.

A North Woods Recipe

STAGE WORLD MOURNS DEATH OF BELASCO

New York, May 15.—Broadway is mourning today for one of the few men who reached its pinnacles and stayed there.

The man is David Belasco, master craftsman of the American theater, whose death yesterday robbed the show world of probably its most beloved and most enduring figure.

Death came to Belasco in his apartment in the Hotel Gladiators as a result of a heart attack with which he was stricken last Wednesday night.

Death came painlessly. Belasco was conscious, almost to the end. A few minutes before he died, he opened his eyes and asked for his daughter, Mrs. Morris Giet, who had left the room a moment before. With him when he died beside his daughter were Morris Giet, Dr. Jerome Wagner, his family physician and Dr. Cary Squiggleson, a heart specialist.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Central Synagogue. Rabbi Jonah B. Wise will officiate and Edwin Milton Royle, playwright, will deliver the eulogy.

BURIAL IN BROOKLYN

The honorary pallbearers will include Mayor Walker, Daniel Frohman, Lee Shubert, George M. Cohan, Al Jolson, Judge Mitchell Kravager, Frank Gillmore, president of Actors' Equity, A. C. Brown, shepherd of the Lamb Club, Edward C. Carpenter, president of the Dramatists' Guild, and E. D. Collette, New York newspaper editor.

His body will be placed in the Belasco mausoleum at Linden Hills cemetery, Brooklyn, beside the body of his wife, who died in 1926, and his daughter, Mrs. William Elliott, who died in 1911.

Belasco, who was 77, had fought off a severe attack of pneumonia during the winter. Some weeks ago he was pronounced out of danger. The long illness, however, weakened his heart and no reduced his resistance he could not respond to the efforts of his physicians to prolong his life.

CLAS BY COLLAPSE

Word of Belasco's death did not reach his theater for almost an hour. A matinee was in progress of his last production, "Tonight or Never."

"It is one in the theatrical world which it is more truly said than of Belasco that he had devoted his life to the American theater."

'MORE JOBS' IS KLEIN'S REMEDY

Nashville, Tenn., May 15 (AP).—More jobs is the prescription of Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, to cure the business depression.

Further, he told the Nashville Chamber of Commerce the "more jobs" remedy is the only one that will bring about business recovery.

"We have got to sustain and strengthen the buying power of our wage earners," he said.

Dr. Klein listed a "decade of the depression" that he said was an outgrowth of "several salary lessons business has learned during the period of trial."

Springfield, May 15 (AP).—Col. Charles D. Parkhurst, 81, West Point graduate in the class of 1875, died today.

HONOR TO CLARA BARTON URGED

Washington, May 15 (AP).—A statement characterizing Clara Barton, Red Cross founder, as a "champion illustration of the prophet without honor in her own house" was issued today by Mercer C. Johnston, director of the Peoples Legislative Service.

Johnston attacked the Red Cross anniversary stamp to go on sale May 21 as "caricature," instead of the "heroic features of Clara Barton, heroine founder, the pretty face of Marie Hard, a New York artist's model, dolled up like a Red Cross nurse."

He criticized the lack of materials in Miss Barton in Red Cross national headquarters and mentioned Miss Isabel Barzman, secretary of the organization, as being "forced to give some sort of recognition" to Miss Barton in view of the fiftieth anniversary celebration.

QUEEN HEADS PROCESSION TO YSAVE GRAVE

Brussels, May 15 (AP).—Royalty bowed its head today at the funeral of Eugene Ysaie, famous violinist, who died Tuesday. Queen Elisabeth led an impressive procession as Belgium honored the famous musician.

Preceded by a military band playing funeral marches, a procession of troops and carriages with innumerable wreaths and cushioned bears carrying the maestro's decorations left the Ysaie home for Trinity Church where the services were held.

The hearse was followed by members of the family and foreign and Belgian officials. Queen Elisabeth who has always been a great admirer of Ysaie's compositions, Countess Vanderschueren and Count de Grunbe already were at the church.

The church walls were covered with black and silver and a high catafalque was in front of the choir where seats had been reserved for the queen, members of the family and officials.

After the service, during which some of Ysaie's own compositions were played, the procession made its way to the Ixelles Cemetery, where the musician was laid to rest.

Plot to "Socialize" Farmers Is Charged

Fairfield, Ia., May 15 (AP).—William H. Hodge, vice-president of the Pillsbury Engineering and Management Corporation, Chicago, a nationwide utility system, charged in an address here today that under the mark of an attack on what he called a non-existent "power trust" a well-organized and determined effort was under way to socialize all industry, including agriculture.

DAD' ON WAY TO BOX EARS OF AL CAPONE

Boston, May 15 (INS)—The Boston newspapers today accorded a tolerant prominence to the claims of the Laidlaw Kapovich, a Romanian, that he is the father of Al Capone, notorious American racketeer, and that he is going to the United States to "box Al's ear." Kapovich, the newspapers said, is a native of the R. A. R. in New York next week. He will go to Chicago and there if he does not work out, confront the so-called Capone and "give him a good whacking."

"I have not seen my son for 30 years," the newspaper said, "but I am sure that I am his father. I want to go to Chicago and convince myself whether my son is really the notorious Al Capone who, the papers say, is the world's biggest racketeer and a multi-millionaire."

"If he is, I promise to take him back with me to New York and make an honest business man out of him."

DEFERRED OLD AGE BILLS MAY BE RECONSIDERED TUESDAY

HOUSE VOTE IS ON MOTION OF MAYOR

First Move to Get Measures Revived Taken Following Talk With Governor

The first move in a battle to revive financial bills for old-age assistance was a possible reconsideration of the defeated bills today at the State House.

On motion of Representative John W. Mahoney of Boston the House voted to take action on the question of reconsidering yesterday's rejection at Tuesday's session.

Mahoney's motion followed a conference with Representative Timothy Cronin of Cambridge and Governor Ely. The two senators are members of the House pension committee.

The Governor had no comment to make on any compromise plan that he may have. Yesterday's debate saw a number of measures offered to finance the assistance bill passed last year, but all met with rejection when votes were called.

The debate in the House was opened by Representative Albert F. Bigelow, acting chairman of the ways and means committee, sponsoring a head tax of $1 for men and $2 on women. He estimated that the tax would bring in about $2,500,000, enough to pay the entire cost of the assistance granted to those above 70.

AMENDMENT ACCEPTED
Bigelow agreed to accept an amendment offered by Representative John A. Deane of Uxbridge limiting the duration of the head tax to the years 1931 and 1932.

Deane said that by that time the additional tax of one cent on gasoline put on gasoline would be ended. He suggested that the tax might be continued and substituted for the head tax at that time. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 87 to 55.

Rep. C. F. Nelson Pratt of Taunton suggested to have the whole subject recommitted to the ways and means committee. This motion was defeated, 43 to 96.

Rep. Roland D. Sawyer moved that the bill be recommitted and the committee instructed to bring in a surtax on salaries above $5000. It was rejected on a roll call vote 108 to 117.

The motion of Rep. Michael H. Jordan of Lawrence for a cigarette and tobacco tax was voted down overwhelmingly on a voice vote. It was another motion by Rep. Leo M. Birmingham of Brighton to impose an additional tax of $1 on men only.

An amendment by Rep. Lewis R. Sullivan of Dorchester for the raising of the necessary fund through a State lottery was rejected on a standing vote, 27 to 85.

POLL TAX RISE REJECTED
One other amendment that the House rejected was offered by Rep. Charles A. Kelley of Worcester. Under this amendment the present $2 poll tax on men would be increased to $3 and the whole proceeds turned over to finance the assistance law.

When the smoke had cleared after more than two hours of debate, the House had before it the bill for a head tax of $1 for men and $2 on women, to be in force for two years.

The question then came on ordering the bill as amended to a third reading. The ceiling of the roll showed 69 for the bill and 143 against, thus killing the entire program.

The text showed that of all the propositions put forth the most popular was that offered by Sawyer to get the money from those earning in excess of $5000 a year.

He pleaded with the House not to break faith with the old people who were expecting the bill and contended that the prosperous citizens should not only pay for the relief but should be glad to pay.

HIS TOES WERE TARGET

Joseph Cataldo, 18, of Roslindale, went to Harley Hospital, 178 Ames Corner, to have his toes treated after one of his pals, who had been out for target practice, tried to put a bullet through a hat thrown into the air. He waited till the hat was so near the ground that the bullet hit Cataldo's foot. (Staff photo.)

GUILTY DESPITE AIMED AT HAT, BUT HIT TOES

Judge Thomas Dowd in Municipal Court today congratulated John O'Malley of 80 in Boston on his vivid imagination, but found him guilty of larceny of $300 worth of dresses.

O'Malley was alleged to have taken 18 dresses from the car of Miss Mabelle Riviere, Pawtucket, R. I., modiste, in Athens st., South Boston. He was arrested in a vacant house in Athens st., where police charged the dresses were found.

"I saw a man carry the dresses into the house and I was doing a little private investigating with a view to calling the police," said O'Malley.

"What an imagination!" Judge Dowd exclaimed. "There should be a chapter for you in fiction writing."

The case was continued until tomorrow for sentence.

2 WOMEN HURT IN CRASH

Three women, riding in a light roadster, were injured early today in a collision between their car and one driven by Abbott Frank, of Walnut ave., Roxbury, at Pleasant st. and Commonwealth ave., Brighton.

WHEAT SAVED TO CHINA BAKED

An act of Congress is required to make possible the shipment of America's surplus wheat to China for the relief of the famine-stricken populations of that nation. James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, stated in a letter to Mayor Curley, which was received at City Hall today.

Last fall the Mayor suggested to President Hoover and silver specialists that such a procedure would not only help relieve suffering among America's wheat growers, but it would also win the friendship and affection of the Chinese people and would create markets there for the manufacturers of the United States.

The mayor said that it would be advisable to give the Chinese authorities 40 years in which to pay. Chairman Stone stated that under the Agricultural Marketing Act the government has no authority to give a commodity away and that this can only be done by an act of Congress. He expressed his appreciation of Mayor Curley's suggestion.

Garden Go, Tonight.
 Boxing Before Bar.
 Public Is on Bench.
 Gotham Test, Too.
 Sport on Scales.
 Tennis Catching.

BOSTON REGAINS PLACE IN THE SUN

Come, Lou and Al, step on it! Let's see what punch you pack! Scrambled Eggs have struck lean years. You can bring it back.

On Bench sits old Judge Public, the Game's before the Bar. Do your best to meet the test. Put sport back on par.

Fight as did Jack Dempsey, who cracked all women's pates. Unwork that sock which makes em talk.

Of million-dollar gates!

NEXT CASE on the docket. Boxing vs. the Peepul. Boxing step before the Bar. Gosh, Boxing, you're not lookin' as Ratty as you used tuh. You've lost your spats and your Rolls-Royce aspect. Fact is you're seedy lookin' and down at the heel. You have spots on your vest. Your hair needs the curycumb. You don't look as if you had a square meal in a week. Livin' on free lunches at the Yell Loundy's, eh? Tut! Tut! It wasn't like that in the old days. Why, I remember when seven-course dinners at the Copley-Plaza were quite de rigueur with you. No more hot chickens and cold bottles for you, eh? All you get is the leavin's from Wrestling's table. What on earth has happened to you, Boxing? What in tarnation is the matter with you?

It would take up too much of the Court's time, Boxing, for you to tell your troubles. And all you'd do would be to blame it on the misere feller, anyway. You're great, Boxing, at passing the buck. With you, the other feller always is to blame. Shucks! It's yourself that's to blame! You made yourself what you are today and we hope you're satisfied! You're eternally cutting each other's throat. You are willing any day to bite your nose to spite your face. As we told you a couple of days ago, the trouble with you is, Boxing, that you have the habit of doing your fighting the wrong side of the ropes. If there was half the scrapping inside the ropes there is outside 'em, the fight fans would make the Boston Garden bulge out at the sides.

YOU SAY you've learned your lesson, Boxing? Never again, eh? The feeling is awful in the cold gray dawn of the morning after, isn't it? You want one more chance? Well, we, the Peepul, John Q. Public himself, are going to give you it. That's all we've been giving you, one more chance. But we'll fall again. There's one born every minute, you know. It's your last chance, tonight, Boxing—your last chance, tonight!

Lou Brouillard vs. Al Mello here in the Boston Garden. Tommy Loughran vs. Vittorio Campolo in Madison Square Garden, New York. On these two matches tonight, much of boxing's success this season depends. If the fans get a real run for their money in the two Gardens tonight it will give new life to the Game and arouse interest in events to come. If the fights prove a "barney" there will not be a corporal's guard turn out to see Shammy Maloney collide with Ernie Schell or Jack Sharkey endeavor to topple over the Tall Tower of Gorgonzola.

The ripples of tonight's combats even will have more or less effect in Cleveland, where the Black Union of the Rhine is preparing to defend his world's championship throne against the King of the Canebrakes. The Schmelling-Stribling tele-ratle, however, will not be affected so much by tonight's fights as will other fights. Der Max and Willie are not drawing the fans to Cleveland. What will make the game the best is a world's championship, and is being fought in a giant new stadium in fertile and hitherto unplantedettle territory. No one should know better than Max and Willie themselves what lucky dogs they are.

Well, well, well... If it isn't the Sun... Old Sol—the kid himself!... Where you all been, boy?... Yeh snah, he's right for sure eyes. Hang around awhile this time, Lou, for the love of Mike... Nat Butler is lining up his kids for a busy season at Beverly Beach. Freddie Lane tells us... Has a new kind of hot dog... They don't bark. Frankfurters and kids riding go together... I like peanuts and baseball... And Red Mike and Violeta... Most of us don't care how hot it rains the rest of the week as long as Saturday or Sunday is sunny... Paymaster Bill McGuire takes Thursday off... That explains Bill's grinch on Wednesday... Cakes and donuts... Into each life some rain must fall, says the poetry feller... But we're not that kind of a Wet!

NEW ENGLANDERS are prominent among the letter men at West Point. Thompson B. Maury of Brookline, one of the associate editors of the Boston Sunday Advertiser, holds the coveted Army "A" in swimming, subject to completion of his fourth class year. Douglas M. Cairns of Manchester, N. H., has a monogram in swimming and Gaspar F. Blunda of East Boston has one in boxing. James W. Park of Wellesley was his "A" in fencing. A quartet of Down Easters, Edward J. Coter of Brockton, Walter E. Goodrich of Portsmouth, N. H., and two Bostonians, John D. Lawlor and Thomas C. Derry, barged the hockey "A" in Boston Bruins are not the only hockey leaders in this neck of the woods.

That was a good sign—that big crowd the Tilden-Richards tennis duel attracted. And big sign, too, that the customers run for their money, too. If you observe the signs about the sports trail closely, you'll see that sport's interest is becoming diversified. The game is beginning to understand the baseball, boxing, wrestling and hockey are not the only sports in the world. Tennis is catching on. Eventually, it will go big.

The tennis battle between Richards and Tilden drew a bigger crowd than either boxer has drawn here in a long time. How long before the racketeers will throttle it, like they're throttling other sports? But name some business racketeers haven't got into, don't prohibition grace!

CONSIDERABLE water has run past the mill since Rev. James H. Doyle was a star in Boston as Max, Frank Conaway's B. C. clown, but Father Doyle is just as interested in athletics as ever and the athletes to him. He now is spiritual director of the St. Numa Society at St. Francis de Sales' Church, Charlestown. A host of big league talent turned out at the annual communion breakfast last Sunday. Whatever you'd look you'd see a sports notable.

By JACK CONWAY
Lou Brouillard, the puny southpaw from Worcester, is favorite at odds of 10 to 1 to win the New England welterweight championship from Mello of Lowell in their round bout at the Boston Garden tonight.

The rugged sucker from Worcester says his fists of iron carry him to the throne of which he is the favorite. Brouillard, who has a record of 28 wins and 10 losses, has a go-roaring from the primary rank. He has been similar to the one who carried Mello from a $150 bet with Shaver O'Brien at a Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund show at Mechanic building in his crushing knockout victory over Shavin in the sailing a few years later.

There isn't anything fancy about Brouillard's style. It's one of those aggressive youngsters who keeps plugging forward every second in the ring, hitting the old punches fly. It's in the books, says the speculative element, for Brouillard to be the mid surge of a youngster who is determined to go places. Flaming Youth, with ambition urging him on, is a mighty difficult bird to halt.

Mello is Fighting With His Back Against Wall
Mello will be fighting with his back against the wall. It will be his first Boston start since he was knocked out by Gennile Jones at the Garden. Following that fight he took a long layoff. He then visited the clinic of the Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn., where he had a complete overhaul. Back in the East again, Al entered in a couple of tryout bouts. Next he had his tennis while training for Brouillard. Mello has shown plenty of fire in his attack. He says he's his old self again, that he will prove he is far from being a back number in the flint game.

Mello is only 24 years old. As far as the years go he is still a youngster. The followers of boxing, however, look upon him as a veteran as he has been in there blazing away with heavy punches since a youngster. Back in 1924, Al represented the United States in the Olympics, then turned pro.

The seven-round scumal will bring together Mike Bonaglia of Italy and Andy Mitchell, Californian desperado. Bonaglia is Pull Bonaglia's new heavy weight, and is a quite good. Mitchell is the younger who once gave Jim Maloney a merry upset at the Garden. Joe Zermeno, after a sensational scrap, will appear for Lynch of Providence in another seven-round affair. Lynch has a following in Rhode Island. He's a knockout guy. Diamond at F. There will be three five-round bouts.

The Garden will give 30 extra for the best fight. It should amount to more than boys still in the well known gas.

New York, May 15 (AP)—Despite the sad showing on far of the Brooklyn Robins, Manager Wilbert Robinson wishes it would rain. He thinks that would stop the newspaper correspondence from giving what he termed their imagination "such free rein."

at Illinois Rule

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY

The Illinois Athletic Commission now bars all wrestlers from advertising themselves at world champions in that state.

Someone discovered that there were six champions and only two worlds. The one we live on and the last one of Glenn Volire's.

But did the wrestlers laugh when they heard about it?

Every wrestler has enough titles to make a one-man lodge.

And enough faces to act each part.

A good wrestler can look in the mirror and fail to recognize the image.

One prominent matman broke a good glass that way. He dove right into it, thinking he was tackling a stranger.

Another had himself arrested on suspicion. Of being another fellow.

Call a wrestling champ by any other name and he'll still keep collecting.

John "Shono" Collins leads his fighting Red Sox into Chicago for a four-game engagement with the White Sox. The Sox, who were kept out of the Detroit series so as to be at pitch in p. m. It's Harold McKinn's turn to twist for the Pale Horse.

The Fenway folk gained undoubted possession of sixth place by winning the first game from the Athletics yesterday, 3 to 2, while the Athletics were beating the White Sox. They had to go to Chicago to split even to retain their present berth.

When the Sox gain the edge over the Athletics they may be in fifth place leaving the White Sox. If the Indians, who have lost six games in a row, are now in the lead, they may be in the lead. The Sox are ahead of them and face a hard struggle with the world's champion Mackmen.

When the Sox have a big inning they usually win. When they don't, they are in a bad way. They have a large frame in each of the three games in Cleveland and captured all of them. They couldn't get going in the first game against the Tigers and lost. Yesterday they put on a four-run rally in the fifth to overcome a two-run lead and won out.

Horace "Hod" Lisenby, who stepped into the contest in the fifth after the Sox had taken a 2-0 lead, led against Ed Durham. Lisenby, who is a first baseman, was hitting one home run in the season by hitting one home run in the fifth.

By BILL GRIMES

Although it required five extra hole matches and a sixth which won the full distance to settle the matches, the favorites all came through in the first round of the Country Club Cup matches, this morning at Rockline.

Three of the overtime matches required two extra holes in order to arrive at a decision, but the other two wound up at the 18th hole.

Joe Lynch, winner of the Country Club Cup, was taken to the 20th hole by R. W. Wilson of South Shore; Johnny Cole, Brass River, had to play two extra holes to eliminate "Bo" Partridge, Crow Point; A. V. Ellis, the Country Club, took out H. D. Baker, Jr., Highland, in the third 20-hole match.

Charlie Crowley and Hal Kaler went 18 holes before the Wallaston player was declared a winner, while Henry Carlson, Meadowbrook, hung on to Eddie Sturges for 18 holes.

One of the best matches of the first round, although it wound up at the 18th hole, was that played by W. A. Whitcomb, Albemarle, and N. S. Campbell, the Country Club.

Whitcomb, Campbell in Close Battle

The Whitcomb-Campbell match was a dog-eat-dog affair from the start and the outcome in doubt until Whitcomb's birdie in a tie-break five foot six hole putt on the 16th green. Whitcomb was down two but Campbell took the 17th hole and then going to the home hole The Country Club player's beautiful second shot was true in fact, with Whitcomb in the trap, which was muddy and heavy from the recent rain.

Whitcomb clipped off the ball to the green and after Campbell laid his approach putt dead next to the hole, Campbell put in a putt which gave him the match, 1 up.

Although Joe Lynch and Bob Wilson were not up to their usual standard as far as mental concentration, the South Shore player, up one up on Lynch going to the 17th, 2 up at the turn. Three down at the 18th, Lynch put on a superb side by side a dead stroke on the 12th green and a beautiful chip at the ensuing hole, the former Junior champion squared the match at the 12th.

Lynch lost the short 14th, but he came back with a win at the 15th where after missing his drive he connected with a long bunker shot to within 15 feet of the cup, he took the hole in 4. The 16th and 17th holes were halved in par, and although Lynch was down with the second going to the 20th, he won the hole and the match with a chip and putt recovered to get a half in the next hole.

Three Stymies in Crowley-Kaler Match

Three stymies changed the complexion of the Crowley-Kaler match and gave the Wallaston player a win, while A. V. Ellis of The Country Club fought an uphill battle to defeat H. D. Baker, Jr., Highland. At one stage of this match during the midway round, Ellis was 4 down and he was 3 down standing on the 18th tee.

After Ellis had won the 17th, 18th and 19th, he was 2 up. Baker presented him with the 18th by making a one foot putt.

Although the Cole-Partridge match went 20 holes before the Brass Riverie took the decision, only five holes were halved.

The second round of The Country Club Cup matches will be played this afternoon.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Golf is a game of theory, and obviously springing from the same theory, is the whole school of "hitting against the left leg."

This theory was almost certainly invented by some contributor to the literature of golf who could not hit himself swinging a golf club correctly.

Just as the left leg is shifting the weight, creates the mental picture of showing the body over to the right, so does hitting against the left leg generate the picture of leveling against any part of your body. This is a totally wrong because the leverage applied is not a leverage against any part of your body, but against the ball. This action would in itself impel a pressure of power and force against your left leg, or therabouts, while the action strives for is just the opposite—speed and acceleration in the club-head. Now any real golfer can tell you that the one in this case never will yield the other. This is why we always say to avoid using your strength and force. They produce a lunge—nothing more. Stay far away from "hitting against the left leg."

One of the records likely to go has been untouched since 1912, that being made by M. C. Knowlton of Darlington in the high jump at 6 feet 1 1/2 inches.

Miles of the Big Green is the candidate to better this height since he has been jumping over it since last spring and did 6 feet 2 inches last Saturday at Columbus.

Both sides kept the truce.

Los Angeles, May 15 (INS)—How Spencer Abbott, manager of the Portland Club, could snag the veteran smelter, Hank O'Day, and set away for it was revealed today. This question puzzled the National League many years.

One evening Abbott saw O'Day looking over a restaurant menu with heavy glasses.

"No you do have to wear glasses, eh?" Abbott said to O'Day.

O'Day's reply was: "Young man, if you ever left a seat about these glasses I'll run you out of the league."

Both sides kept the truce.

One evening Abbott saw O'Day looking over a restaurant menu with heavy glasses.

"No you do have to wear glasses, eh?" Abbott said to O'Day.

O'Day's reply was: "Young man, if you ever left a seat about these glasses I'll run you out of the league."

Both sides kept the truce.

Los Angeles, May 15 (INS)—How Spencer Abbott, manager of the Portland Club, could snag the veteran smelter, Hank O'Day, and set away for it was revealed today. This question puzzled the National League many years.

GUYS 'THE GOAT' BUTTS COUNT OUT OF RING

SONNENBERG WINS WITH TACKLES

By MR. BOSTON

There is one thing I want to thank Gus Sonnenberg for, and that is the consideration he showed in not losing Count Zarynoff into my lap.

The Old Dynamite probably figured if he merely hurt the Count from the ring to the press room that the latter wouldn't get a black up enough.

Sonny selected another section of the ring where the drop was about four feet more than in front of where I was seated. Which proves that a college education at drag old Phil's mouth wasn't entirely wasted. Gus knows what four feet means, especially when the party of the second part is going to land on his neck.

I presume I should tip my readers that Sonny won the match. He lost the first fall in 34 minutes 45 seconds, when the Count scored with a spectacular outside reverse fall and halfelson.

It was after this little happening that the Dynamite made such a careful study of the distance to the floor of the arena from the four sides of the ring. He finally picked his spot, lifted Zarynoff in the air, bounced him over the rope and crashed him, head first, to the floor.

I could have licked the Count when he got back into the ring. He had landed on his head. I didn't expect to see him other than in a hospital for a week. Apparently the Count toughened up his dome falling from horses when in the Russian royal guard as he struggled back into the ring where he was a victim of the Sonnenberg tackle in 14m. 45.

The Count is sure game as he later came back for more despite a neck injury. Sonny went right after him just as if he were a Harvard football player and put him out of commission with a couple of tackles in 1m. 21s.

The Count gave the fans a swell show. The mob was with him to win, but Sonny was too tough for his rival.

Browning Makes Hit With the Fans

This Jim Browning of Milwaukee apparently wanted to show the fans and myself that he is a first-class wrestler. He lifted Abe Kaplan in the air and tossed him over the ropes into my lap. Jim apparently does not know that my lap is all worn out from catching 200-pound wrestlers this season.

Jim gave the crowd a thrill when he tossed Kaplan with a turn over body scissors in 15m. It was the first time any wrestler executed a turn over body scissors in Boston.

Browning would clamp his dangling legs around Kaplan, hoist Abe high in the air and then spin him around like you would a top. He would spin him five or six times, then, an other. Finally he dropped Kaplan to the canvas for a fall.

Lutze Beats Hyatt After Rugged Match

Leo Hyatt of New Hampshire gave Nick Lutze plenty of opposition, but the youthful Calumet came through with a victory in 20m. 20s. with a double arm lock and reverse back fall.

Leo Malaculan, former Colgate star, added one more to his growing list of victims when he "kicked" Eddie Demotroff in 20m. 45s. with a flying tackle.

John Spelman defeated George Watson in 20m. 50s. with a flying tackle.

Jack Patterson and George Vaselli went 15m. to a draw.

Stanley Starack upset Jake Schaffer in 15m. 15s. with an inside crutch, body lift and slip.

Charley Donnell showed plenty of fire refereeing the prelims, while Sam Smith did a good job in the semifinal and main bout. Sam was kicked out in white flannels, over shoes and an orange shirt that talked right out loud. Plenty of color any way you wish to look at it.

BOXER'S DEATH IS PROBED

St. Louis, May 15 (AP)—John Paladino, 18-year-old amateur boxer, died at his home here today, a few hours after he had won a decision in a fight last night.

Paladino engaged in a bout with Jack Richards in a benefit box show, the proceeds of which went to the family of Eli Kordinsky, amateur heavyweight, who was fatally injured while in a training bout.

Police are investigating the circumstances of Paladino's death.

DAMON RYUNON Says

(Copyright 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

New York, May 15.—We had to have two American-born Italians on the amateur boxing team representing the United States at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night to get a tie with Mussolini's mauling mob.

And, at that, it took a decision in our favor that I thought was very punkish in making it a draw.

I think Italy's young gladiators should have had the job by a vote of 4 to 3.

But of course that is only my opinion. Some non-patriotic thought the decision I deemed fair, in fact and just, in fact, they were inclined to agree with the judges' decision.

In favor of the Italians, I mean. Damon Runyon to Italian Italians. Not the American Italians.

Besides the American Italians on our team, we had an American Slav, two American Irishmen, one American Negro. However, one of the Italians was introduced by the announcer as "that great Jewish boxer from Italy," as it was all over.

The young gentlemen from sunny Italy are among Italy's best Olympic boxing representatives, I believe. They won the flyweight, lightweight, welterweight, and light heavyweight contests Wednesday night, leaving us the bantamweight, featherweight, middleweight, and heavyweight bouts.

While I doubt that the American team was the best that could be assembled, among our amateurs, I thought the Italians did remarkably well. In the matter of physical condition, they had it all over our lads.

Italian Boxers Showed Plenty of Speed

Now, of course, we have an abili there.

The Italians have been conditioning for this prize, while some of our boys have had to keep at other tasks, getting what training they could in between chores.

But even so, the victors displayed more of the spirit of sports in their boxing. In fact, it was sheer brutality that won a couple of bouts for the Italians. We all our fellows had displayed the keen spirit of competition, of pay.

Mr. Bill Murphy, the stout gent who acted as chief second for most of the American.

"Kill him, Hank," bawled Mr. Murphy at Henry Burrows, of Boston, when Henry was aiming a severe right-hander at Signor Luigi Rovito, an industrious Italian heavyweight with a southpaw stance.

This sanguinary brawl was entirely honorable in its aim, but then Mr. Bill Murphy was slightly excited. His blood pressure was working on him. Mr. Murphy really didn't want Henry to actually kill Rovito. He only wanted Henry to maim him.

Which Henry did his best to do.

Surrette's Victory Gave American Team Tie

It was Henry's victory in this bout that brought the Americans up in a tie.

Henry's Mark Hough the Negro on the American team got the duke over Aldo Longonetti in the middleweight class, and that was the decision that I thought was undeserved. It seemed to me that Aldo out-accompanied Mark by a fair margin.

Dick Madden of Boston, who ought to be a great amateur boxer, let himself be outwitted by Gino Rossi in the 175-pound class. Rossi must have been a round-house caddy (i. e., Richard, who was fed heavy ducking to use his superior boxing knowledge).

The best fight was between a head case and a square jawed, light weight from Boston named Steve Halek. Halek fought a desperate battle against Marco Biscione to lose the decision.

Henry Burrows, of Boston, a good puncher with his right hand could not get his right adjusted on a burbling little flyweight named Rodriguez and lost the opening bout. He nailed his opponent just one good poke, and raised a large bump over the Italian's left eye.

Maybe It Is O. K. for Amateurs

White Plains, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—John Muldoon, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, thinks professional wrestling is a chivalrous and dignified as for New Yorkers to take a match in the Metropolitan Opera House.

He expressed his views and disapproval at the Lumberjacks' wrestling when they staged for a Udonas to take a utility bout.

ITALIAN 'PURES' TO TRY AGAIN

New York, May 15 (AP)—Italy's international amateur boxing team, which got an easy break in the series with the United States on Wednesday night, has asked for a return engagement and received it. The Italians, confident that they can make a better showing, will meet the same American team in night return bouts in Madison Square Garden Wednesday, June 2.

Yanks Return Walker
St. Louis, May 15—Fred Walker, young Yankee confidant, whom the New York club recalled from Toledo about two weeks ago, has been sent back to the Athletics under an optional agreement.

compete in the British championships at Wimbledon. She probably will have Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn as her partner in doubles while abroad.

A life insurance policy is a friend in the "insure-quiet" rearing years of age, with all payments to the company ceasing at that age. Suppose you were fifty-five years old today, and ready for those years of quietude, and ready to see a record of your savings. A life insurance company has to base the cost of a policy on the length of time which a man is expected to live, and according to American experience, mortality is expected to live, on an average, 35 years longer. A man age 30 is expected to live, on an average, 35 years longer; a man age 40, 30 years; a man age 50, 25 years; a man age 60, 20 years; a man age 70, 15 years; a man age 80, 10 years; a man age 90, 5 years; a man age 100, 0 years. This is based on an average of 1000 persons. Some, of course, may live longer than that; others, a shorter period, but the above is the average expectancy.

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

Although State St. is still inclined to be bearish, five successive days of decline in the rail market on the other side of the page would seem to indicate that the rally mentioned here as likely to occur at least a temporary respite from the level, caution predominates in the market. While the above concerns in the field are hard pressed.

While Erie Elevator covered its dividend, it is the first quarter brokers believe there is a liquidation in the stock. They say to keep in building, when the rally is in prospect, and it is too early to make a move. They are to keep on making money when the rally is in prospect, and it is too early to make a move. They are to keep on making money when the rally is in prospect, and it is too early to make a move.

Frontier Oil Co. Sales Are Larger
Frontier Oil Co. sales have shown a "material gain" so far this year over last year, and the management expects even greater increase over this year. The company's revenue has been helped by the Canadian government's decision to allow the company to export oil.

Great Northern Has Big Reserve Funds
Great Northern Railway directors set aside $4,100,000 as cash reserve for contingencies. Money represents the company's surplus, which is the largest in the industry. The company's revenue has been helped by the Canadian government's decision to allow the company to export oil.

Consumption of Electricity Gains
Canadian Power Co. subsidiary of Canadian Hydro-Electric Corp. reports that consumption of electricity for lighting and power in March was 17 per cent greater than in March last year.

Ipswich Mills Pays More in Liquidation
Ipswich Mills will pay on May 21 a further dividend in liquidation of $2.00 per share on preferred stock, making a total payment of $10.00 per share.

Bond Offerings of Week Are Larger

NEW ISLANDS INCREASED

New England building contracts awarded for the week ended May 15, made public today by F. W. Dodge Corp., amounted to $2,892,153.00. This compares with a weekly average for the year to date of $2,500,000. The figures made known today represent the first sharp upward turn in this industrial index since several weeks.

It appears that those in favor of abandoning the great government industrial plant, the Charleston and Portsmouth navy yards, are not trying to have it done without a fight. The navy yards are not trying to have it done without a fight. The navy yards are not trying to have it done without a fight.

Steel prices have been stable for some time, but there is a slight upward trend in the market. The price of steel is expected to rise in the near future.

Bears in Attack on Gen. Motors
General Motors, long held in high esteem, is now being attacked by bears. The price of the stock has fallen sharply, and there is a general pessimism in the market.

We read an optimistic view on the outlook for American corn into the statement issued by the Earl D. Babel, chairman of the American Corn Sugar, Inc. The statement is optimistic, and it is expected that the price of corn will rise in the near future.

Our own information supports the Department of Agriculture's estimate of a large crop of corn, which, in view of the recent price is expected to increase the distribution in the coming season.

If larger crops are coming, do not make large demand for corn. It is expected that the price of corn will rise in the near future.

Town of Milford sets a new record for the Home National Bank. The bank has set a new record for the town of Milford, and it is expected that the price of the stock will rise in the near future.

Reformers are planning a campaign to awaken the national conscience, and will offer a prize for the best suggestions on how to eliminate vice in American cities.

Here are a few suggestions:

- 1—Discourage all telephones.
- 2—Put down all taxicabs and cabs.
- 3—Report all women.
- 4—Blindfold all men.

One Healthy Girl

The Japanese Are a Rugged Nation

PAINTING A FAN IN ICE-COLD WEATHER

This young person with the pleasant smile is Miss Miyu Yagihashi, competing in the sports of the Imperial Swimming Instruction Society of Tokio.

The water in which you see her "treading water" is that of the Sumida River at Tsukiji.

These sports are held in freezing weather to test the competitors' vitality and courage.

On this occasion it was necessary to break the ice in order to have a clear course for the swimming and other contests.

Miss Yagihashi, as you will notice, is smiling and attending to her work with cakes of ice floating all around her.

As she smiles in the ice-cold water she is painting a fan, and the painting must be well done in order to win the prize.

You may call this "cruelty," but it is not. Young Japanese girls and boys are examined by doctors before sporting contests and are not allowed to injure themselves.

This is carrying out the old Spartan idea of hardening youth.

Miss Yagihashi's smile is perfectly natural; you see that.

Wonderful are the Japanese in their endurance and ceaseless energy.

They can work long hours at the Equator or paint fans in ice-cold water.

We show our national wisdom in our realization that we could not compete with them. If we followed the dictate of our hearts and divided this country with them, they would be too much for us.

Our Navy Yards

Charlestown and Portsmouth Vital for National Security

If Mr. Hoover and his Administration at Washington are intent upon destroying the military and naval defenses of the United States either for the purpose of economy or in their elusive quest for peace at any price, the last places they ought to begin is at the Charlestown and Portsmouth Navy Yards.

These splendid naval stations constitute the most important strategic and naval defenses of the upper Atlantic seaboard. Charlestown is not only the oldest and most historic naval station in this country. It is the key point in the wealthiest and most populous area of all New England. With the development of the magnificent airports we are to have in East Boston and Governor's Island, it will be inseparably united with this newer and most effective means of defense.

It is in fact the heart of the district against which an alien enemy could be expected to deliver its most devastating blows and its most intensive efforts to annihilate.

If Washington doesn't know it, the average man on the street does know that the Portsmouth Navy Yard is constructing the greatest submarines in this country and probably in the world. And we have the testimony of the German military chiefs that America can successfully defend herself so long as she has a combination of capable air and submarine forces. History and tradition should be sufficient in themselves to require the maintenance of these stations which are the heritage of our far-seeing patriots.

But if American history and American traditions do not wear well with this Administration, the smallest speck of common sense ought to convince them that the security of our country requires that these two stations, instead of being curtailed or abandoned, ought actually to be enlarged and expanded.

It was economies of this sort before the World War that caused the needless slaughter of men and the waste of billions in money.

Around World on Dimes

Twenty-one years ago Oscar Bodenhausen, of St. Joseph, Mo., decided to travel around the world. The only obstacle was lack of money. The other day he arrived in New York, having made the trip.

Bodenhausen saved his dimes, put them in a savings bank. Six months ago the bank told him that his hoard had reached the sum of $3700. He never missed these old ten-cent pieces, which he shook out of his pockets at night. But they paid his way, first class, for 33,000 miles, through Japan, China, India, North Africa, most of Europe and Asia.

You can fill in the moral yourself.

Capital Silhouettes

LET US hope that the government of Salvador doesn't land a party of Marines at Washington to protect its nationals from the bandits.

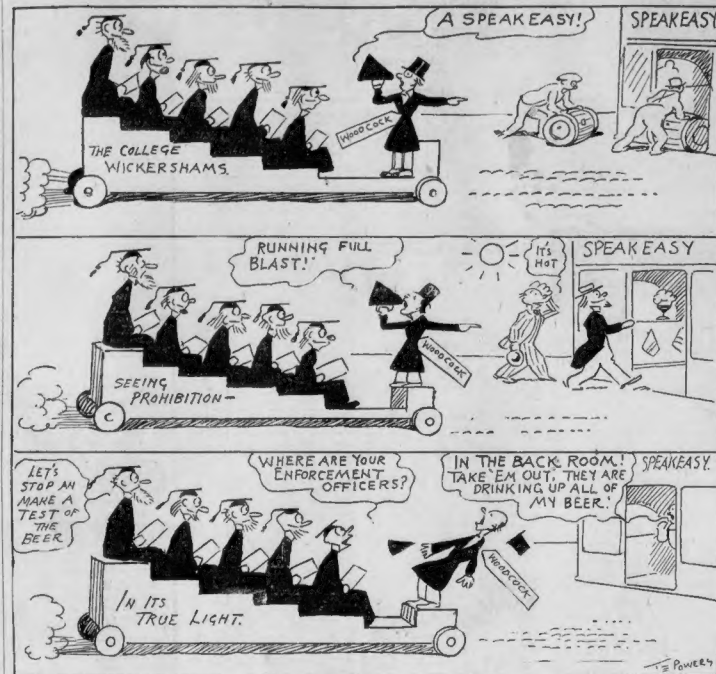

THE ROAD is liberty is a rough and rocky one—Spain must realize that long years will probably pass before she can boast two-gun bandits, bootleggers, hi-jackers and racketeers.

THE TROUBLE about abolishing the United States cavalry as an economy measure is that if we ever go into another scrap we'd have to go to the extraordinary expense of organizing it again.

WE EXPECT to hear any day now from the experts at the War Department that the army mile is obsolete, but we shan't believe it until we hear a balky motor respond to a Smedley Butler vocabulary.

Listen, World! :: Lying

By ELSIE ROBINSON
'Are Women Law-Breakers?'

ARE WOMEN the lying sex? Are they the fundamental law-breakers of society? Are they trivial minded, shallow hearted?

In the derelict mother directly responsible for the delinquent child?

In short, are most of our sweet theories about the Dear Little Woman a lot of hokey and should something be done about it pronto?

A large convention of indignant and influential citizens has recently voted that they are and there should.

Meeting in Fresno, California, they spent an entire day in telling the world what they thought about women. They thought plenty. And very little of it was complimentary.

"That's just like men!" you say. "Getting together to slander women, and every one of them dependent on some woman."

Yes? Maybe. But, as a matter of fact, these speakers were not men. They were women, attending the annual convention of the Sag Federation of Women's Clubs. And the first thing they did . . . before they had discussed a report or passed a resolution . . . was to tell up their sleeves, square their pretty, manicured fists and take their sister for a ride.

Excuses—alibis—high powered arguments? They were sent out. WHAM . . . BAM . . . ZOWIE!

They went to it!

"Women are fundamental law-breakers, liars and the untruthful members of society," said Mrs. Mary Exley of Los Angeles. And, to the last lady, they applauded!

Next came a few remarks that will make every male who reads them burn into big, wet tears of gratitude.

Consider the woman driver," says she. And who hasn't? "The majority of them haven't the slightest respect for the law. They are given the credit of being the lesser offenders under the motor vehicle act."

And then she proceeded to prove (as if it were necessary) that "for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain" the average woman driver has the "heavenly Chinese" backed off the boards.

And you haven't heard the half! Dear Mama—who is, traditionally, at the ex-novo from criticism as the Father present disrespect for law is not the fault of education but of the home," said Mrs. George Parsons of Los Angeles. "It's the intoxicated mother with nicotine-stained fingers who has the delinquent child."

Mama with a bun on! Ten years ago you'd have been run out of town if you had even hinted at the possibility. But remember the "Ladies' entrance" door back of the old corner grocery?

"Speaking of dishonesty," contributed Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight, of San Francisco, "clubhouses used exclusively by women have to chain down toilet articles in rest rooms to keep them from being carried away."

And this writer might have added certain quaint testimony concerning the "natural niceness" of women, recently given her by the manager of a chain of big department stores.

"We find it necessary," said he, "to reinforce the walls of our women's rest rooms twice as often as the men's rooms because of obscene writing. Women, on the whole, are much more vulgar than men."

And, lest there be any lingering delusions that maybe the girls have brains even if they are short of ideas, listen to this—

"Women are snobby and sentimental, when considering public problems. Anyone who has served with them on a jury knows that. Their minds are too often on the run in their new silk hose instead of on the criminal at the bar. Sassy-tongued attorneys wind them round and round with touching tales of the bootlegger's dear old mother or the girl-stricken old father of the boy murderer!"

So there have been the official opinion of the ladies A. J., as expressed by the California State Federation of Women's Clubs. Now YOU tell me!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE
Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, May 15—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when cobwebs were applied to trash cuts? Brock Pemberton's brother Murdock, an art critic, Phil Baker's stooge, Mr. Muldowney, who thinks "puny" is a small horse, a dance school professor during business depression.

Henry Sell, a White Water, Wis. boy, who made a good in the city. Nothing makes a man look so awkward as looking at his wrist watch. A clouded mind can never remember names, they say. The town's most highly educated head waiter—Eugene of the St. Regis.

Walrus mustached white wings who wear cap backwards and smoke pipes upside down. Well bred dogs named Bob Boy. Sign on a 7th ave. quick lunch: "Cafe au lait and coffee." A girl in a meat ticket cage sneaks a drag from a cigarette. Robert Rood, a Hickory, N. C. boy, with a pink cannibal-bird in his lapel.

Whatever become of sleeve garters? Jack Lait, who can turn a short story faster than any American writer. And is a grandpa. Nearly always a midger along West 47th street. And I hear they are invariably able to make a good living despite their handicap.

Mad who drift to Times Square around dusk looking for a break. And the former boulevard comedian who roams the night. By day, he talks to an imaginary dog. Under how a fellow happens to take up with a "W. C. C." I don't know. He pronounces Helen Hagahan's last name.

Hurried dunkers in The Coffee Pot. Overlapped ladies who dabble in henna and call their boy friends "Sugar." Broadway is only a street after midnight. By day, it is as frank and open as a country fair. A midger along West 47th street. And I hear they are invariably able to make a good living despite their handicap.

Purview fellow with bloodless lips who are always perspiring. Any moment a narcotic officer may tap them on the shoulder. I'm getting the creeps. On a night like this I'd like to stretch out on the banks of the Ohio under a sky eyed moon and watch a golden moon short pants along the bay river. Or something.

Star gazers who occupy the benches in Bryant Park these warm nights are cheered somewhat by a strolling gaiter. He sings and thrums a short program without taking up a collection and moves on. To further the touch of romance to a crowded square he wears a black velvet tain. And looks like Wallace Berry.

For many years, when weather and time permit I walk the entire two mile stretch of the Harlem Speedway, out of the pedestrian jungle and offering a straight stroll without crossing intersections. Another regular promenade is an elderly gentleman with whom I formed a bowing acquaintance. And now and then we exchange opinions of the weather. For several months I have missed him. Today he was there again to bestow a friendly smile and passing hand wave. And of such consequence is even a remote contact with cordiality in a big city's aloneness that I finished the walk in a sort of glow.

Percy Crosby gathers much material for his lovable cartoon character "Skippy" prowling about poorer districts of the East Side. Here childhood remains elemental. Kids are kids sans Eton collars, kildeens coats and varnished shoes.

Crosby a few years ago very generous stated me to express a preference for an original cartoon of his limiting—what, incidentally, framed and autographed is one my cherished possessions. My first choice "Skippy" viewing a rural sunrise and exclaiming: "It is so beautiful I could beat somebody in the eye." But Mrs. Crosby had long ago claimed that one, and who could blame her?

Life once had a cover—I think by Crosby—showing the side yard of a village home with a tiny pair of pants-tail on a clothes line. A tender sentiment of about six stoned at the fence gazing at them. The caption was "It was a picture, and I've trotted through the Louvre, Luxembourg and Florence—where it remains so fixed in my memory."

This column is couched today in idle vapors about nothing in particular. In such a mood, were I a poet, I might snap out a verse with the crack of a whip. As it is I can only fumble about in the reach—end of the page which is, happily enough, right here, you big stiff.

What merit to be dropped on Fortune's hill? The honor is to mount it.

Russia—The Business Argument

By Bainbridge Colby

WHEN I speak of Russia as an "enemy state," as I did recently in these columns, I charge only what is freely admitted and nowhere denied. Russia openly proclaims its enmity toward all countries which do not share its economic and social theories.

In a recent dispatch in the Times, Walter Duranty, its Moscow correspondent, declares that:

"Soviet Russia has a war mentality, habitually employs war metaphors, suffers from war neuroses and considers itself in a state of war with all of war's cruelty and all of war's waste and individual suffering, but also with war's heroism and excitement and war's hope of glorious victory."

And Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer of England, writing in the New York American of May 3, sets forth the manner in which this hostility works:

"The first maneuver in communism's drill book is to support all liberal and radical movements against the established order; then, on the morrow of their success, topple over the new men and found, under the pretense of democracy and progress, communist dictatorships in their stead."

The pressure for Russian recognition seems to arise in two quarters—first, among the sentimental or philosophical liberals, who, despite the complete exposure of the Soviet regime as one of cruel repression, see in it something which they identify with the philosophy of liberalism.

This delusion, strange to say, has taken lodgment in the minds of the British Labor Party, although labor organization and the principles of Trade Unionism have nowhere in the world met with such hostility or encountered such ruthless suppression as in Russia.

Some leaders of labor in America are far more enlightened in their attitude toward the Russian experiment, and nothing better shows the soundness and the intelligence of the labor viewpoint in America than the consistent and unwavering opposition of the American Federation of Labor to all proposals looking to Russian recognition.

The other source of the agitation in favor of recognition is very little bothered by theory or principle or national ideals. I refer to big business, which is tormented with the thought that some creditable competition with Russia's Five Year Plan may be lost, which might prove profitable in dollars and cents regardless of any other consideration.

It is depressing to reflect that "other considerations" apparently do not weigh heavily in the commercial mind. Its thoughts are centered upon profits and dividends. It seems to regard national dignity, the safeguarding of our institutions and the preservation of the correct and self-respecting public opinion as matters having little substance—in other words, as unrealities. Such matters are of relatively little moment to the world of goods and merchandise, of salesman-ship and go-getting.

But despite this rather sordid viewpoint, there are still influential voices, I am thankful to say, declaring that America will never barter her principles for material gain. This is compelled to add, moreover, that the business argument which is so little affected by thought of America's dignity or consistency, is not even a good argument.

Our business with Russia is not like other business. It does not rest upon the usual foundations of good business, namely, personal confidence, mutual requirements, an unbroken course of broadening transactions, the normal interchange of commodities, with a volume of trade tending steadily to expansion.

Foreign trade in Russia is nationalized. It is a function of the state. It can be turned off like a tap, to suit the shifting moves or exigencies of Soviet policy.

Russia places no undue valuation upon the willingness of our merchants to sell to her. It is not difficult for a buyer to find sellers, with world trade in its present condition.

However, she has her government-controlled purchasing power, and thus, with the threat of its diversion in other directions, induce a diplomatic recognition which she seeks only that she may abuse it, the position of Russia in the world at large will be prodigiously enhanced.

It would be able to point to a great diplomatic triumph for the Soviet System and to proclaim to its deluded people that, after ten years of struggle, it had brought the most arrogant capitalist nation in the world into submission.

The effect of this in Western European countries, where public opinion has not the same stability that it has with us, might conceivably be calamitous, and involve the world in fresh and incalculable disorders.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE KING of Sam who makes his own laws and could be called by his many wives as King Solomon, believes in monogamy and wants only one wife. There's a wise man. He may have been a king of training, but, judging from the way their marriages turn out, most of them step nonchalantly into the matrimonial ring all "right" and susceptible and unsuspecting.

A rainy weekend spent in hanging around a country house together, is a greater test of love than time. Many a love which is proof against anything else is not weather-proof.

When a married man's eye wanders, it is not so often because he is yearning for another woman, as because he is pining for a woman, the better he loves—some other woman.

Lots of love is still-born, these days—strangled at birth by the girl's "I love you."
